Subsequently, our team dives further into the digital marketing strategy to widely increase the Mini Brands brand awareness especially among young males who are not currently in a strong segment of the products. Our target is to set forth a heavy-ups campaign for holiday 2020 to conquest optimization to customers shopping experience with Mini Brands that will help dynamics of the Zuru's seasonal sales as an agent, Team Six Ad Co.

The emerging customer experience with TikTok serves as one of our strategic groundworks. The combination of our search marketing ads and the wide exposure in mobile apps that appeal to Gen-Z will have the products remain in the competitive toy market while further developing new segments going forward.

MINI BRANDS

One of the hottest toys right now is a plastic capsule called 5 Surprise Mini Brands. Children buy it for anywhere between $5 and $15 and peel it apart to reveal five tiny replicas of branded supermarket products from corporate conglomerates such as Unilever, Hormel and Kikkoman.

In 2019, Mini Brands listed the most searched products in eight categories: tech, kitchen gear, toys and games, accessories and apparel, gaming, sports and fitness, home goods and personal care.

It is said that there are over 500 possible items currently produced for the Mini Brands capsule with new surprises added every four to six months. In turn, this sustains consumers who are continuously exploring.

CONSUMER ATTRIBUTES

The target demographic market includes a wide range of consumers, from children around the age of 4, and up to the young adult demographic. The younger children, especially girls, love to include these miniaturized versions of household items in their tea parties and other role playing activities. For others, the fun is in collecting the growing selection of mini toys.

The typical consumer of 5 Surprise Mini Brands can be found on YouTube or TikTok, two platforms which helped catapult the brand into stardom. Some of the most popular videos on YouTube that feature unboxing have amassed more than 3 million views per video, demonstrating just how popular these toys have become. Likewise, there are just as many clips on TikTok featuring Mini Brands in various skits and reviews.

SOCIAL MEDIA PLATFORMS

According to the Global Digital 2019 report, Facebook and Instagram have the largest numbers of potential reach of advertising. These facts are crucial in the process of making decisions of which social networks to choose for a social media marketing campaign.

SOCIAL MEDIA PLATFORMS

Since our largest target segment are kids and teenagers, the decision on which social media platform to choose should be based on more specific data.

In the picture above we can see the four most popular platforms in terms of potential reach of advertising among teenagers, ages 13-17.

Since most of the platforms have a requirement for the user to be at least 13 years old, the data on usage and potential reach of advertising amongst consumers younger than 13 years old is missing. We use an assumption that ratio would be the same as the above graphic.

SOCIAL MEDIA PLATFORMS

Furthermore, the number of monthly active users is a very important indicator to determine whether to advertise on certain social media platforms. As we can see, Facebook, YouTube and Instagram are the leaders. Thus, advertising through those platforms will likely expose our campaign to more people.

ENGAGEMENT: TikTok

For the Mini Brands for Holiday 2020 campaign, Team Six Ad Co. created a Black Friday advertisement on TikTok. As a result, we found that the TikTok platform generated the most impressions of all social media platforms that we examined. This video on the left gained 605 impressions and 7 engagements in less than 6 hours.

While the page engagements are 36 for 6 total posts, similar to other platforms, the average plays of the 6 posts returned as 442 views which we found quite impressive.

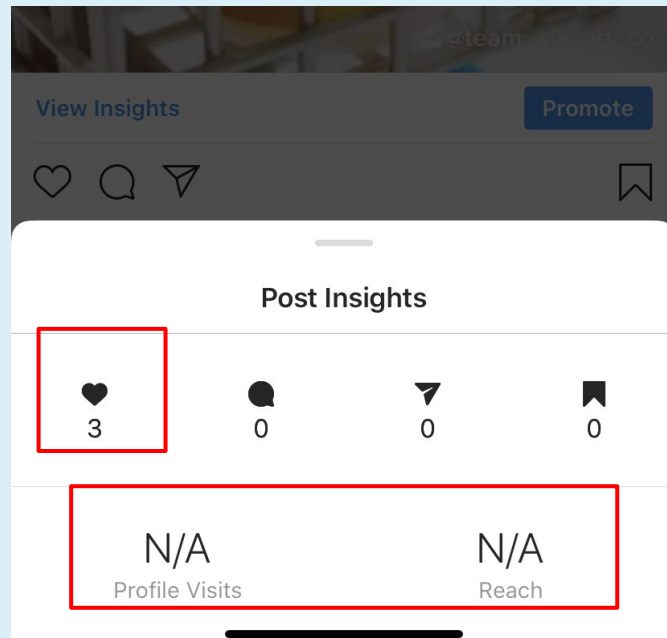

This high impression rate totally relies on TikTok's platform integration made to drive high user engagement (ease of use).

ENGAGEMENT: Instagram

We created a business account and posted some pictures of Mini Brands products and auto-reposted videos from TikTok. The most likes for one post we received were 3 while the impression was 7. On TikTok, the same video on received 12 likes and 379 impressions. There is a significant difference in responses, and some of the functions are not working properly it seems.

Additionally, we followed several influencers within the toy industry. As the time inches closer to holiday season, we can expect to observe the influencers' reactions to Mini Brands.

RECOMMENDATIONS

After carefully reviewing social media platforms and search engine keyword results, one of our social media followers shared her thoughts as a mother. She stated that while parents can't take their children to the grocery stores due to the pandemic, children are more inclined to explore new surprises in this mystery ball. Team Six Ad Co. is confident that the campaign, Mini Brands for Holiday 2020 will continuously satisfy Zuru's brand recognition goal introduced by this trend as well.

Our recommendation to optimize Mini Brands' presence in the competitive market can be broken down below:

1. Increase display advertising across highly targeted sites for brand awareness:

- Frequently review the used/unused factors for best practices:
 - e.g. after Black Friday sale, switch the displays immediately
- Experiment with A/B testing:
 - Even though we targeted the young male demographic, our choice of the standard platform may be biased.

RECOMMENDATIONS (cont'd)

2. Make significant SEO improvements for findability

- Longtail keywords are recommended as there is heavy competition.
- Find relevance each time a new campaign is launched.

3. Develop a content strategy for informativity

- Social media chooses which content the audience access.
 - e.g.engage families on Facebook, post family event information and repost families experience with Mini Brands for further exposure to other families.
- Keep postingTikTok videos once or twice a day to increase the chance of being featured on the “For You Page (FYP)”
- Keep an eye out for the emerging social media trends and new platforms to get familiarized in the early stages of development.
